

Parent/Teacher Resources

Dear Parent/Teacher,

This book was never intended to teach its readers anything. However, it might avail young readers to the concepts of interaction with peers, dealing with minor injuries, and handling ones shortcomings. Also, it touches on family relationships, perseverance, self-reflection, and working together toward a common goal.

Talking points:

Have you ever done cart-wheels?

If you ever suffered a minor injury, how would you deal with this?

Have you ever looked in the mirror, and felt disappointed?

Do you have family members that you admire?

Reading Comprehension:

Why was he named 'Tiney' Littlefork?

What made Tiney sad?

What made Tiney happy?

Can you name all of the characters that Tiney knew?
